One-day Itinerary

Dresden Elbland

BRIEF DESCRIPTION

Embark on a discovery tour of Dresden and surroundings. A walk in the Grand Garden is rewarding in good weather. With its 147 hectares, it is an impressive example of Baroque and English landscaping art. The center of the garden is the Palace, a gem of Early Baroque architecture, which can be visited as part of a guided tour. Also, a ride on the Dresden Park Railway is highly recommended. From that miniature train, one can see the most beautiful spots of the Grand Garden. From the Saxon state capital, your trip will take you to its surroundings. Moritzburg Castle, once Augustus the Strong's pleasure castle, will greet you from amidst an artificially created lake district. From a horse-drawn carriage, one can explore the expansive pond and park grounds. The Little Pheasant Castle is situated at a walking distance of only a few minutes, surrounded by green meadows and cozy forests. Participate in a guided tour and discover Saxony's tiniest royal palace, a paradise in a nutshell. The »Löbnitzdackel«, the locals' nickname for the small-gauge steam-powered train, will take you to Radebeul. Wackerbarth Castle at the foot of the Radebeul vineyards will warmly welcome you there. Get to know Europe's first adventure winery and chill out at the end of the day over a glass of choice wine or sparkling wine.

The Grand Garden of Dresden

By Rail and on Foot

BRIEF DESCRIPTION

No doubt, the Grand Garden is the most beautiful of the numerous parks of the city. There are quite a number of visitors that listen up in amazement when rail noise and a locomotive's resolute whistle disrupt the idyllic tranquility and dense clouds of smoke rise through the canopy of foliage. The answer to the riddle is the Dresden Park Railway, a miniature train that has been operated for decades now by children and youths in their leisure time.

You can comfortably discover the garden grounds, the early Baroque Palace and the Park Railway on the themed guided tour »By Rail and on Foot«. Before embarking on the train, you will learn more about the miniature railway and later on you will be given interesting details of the Palace and the centuries-old art of gardening.
